

Music Gateway Partners with The Academy of Contemporary Music to enhance Music Industry Education

The world's #1 online music marketplace has teamed up with the world leaders in music industry education to form a partnership focusing on assisting students and young talent with their careers in the fast paced music world.

This notable partnership will see the Academy of Contemporary Music (ACM) be the first in the education sector to utilise Music Gateway's pioneering project management & online collaboration tool, the Private Network. It will significantly improve the way students create, collaborate, and communicate between course disciplines as well as providing them with an abundance of opportunities to get their foot in the door and gain valuable experience in the industry.

Martin Kent, Head of Creative Industry Development at ACM said of the partnership, "Being a part of ACM and a successful player in the global music scene simultaneously lets me see the endless stream of innovative talent emerging from the college as well as the major importance of the Music Gateway platform as a world player in their development of opportunities. I look forward to working together to help build the careers of the next generation of exciting musicians!"

Their shared ethos of a strong passion to give young talent direction, a launch pad into the creative working world, and the ability to work globally with high profile professionals from the beginning is what makes it an exciting pairing. The benefit of such a partnership extends further than the college and the music platform, and impacts the industry as the next round of talented professionals start making their mark.

Director of Marketing, Communications & Technology, Oliver Sussat expresses the importance of working alongside an established platform, "Our world-class teaching faculty brings the rarest of opportunities from the music and creative industries back into classrooms, and now, thanks to the Private Network, we're better able to share them with our student network and furthermore, compliment those opportunities with hundreds of others from the outside world."

With the core purpose of aiding the entire student body, ACM recognised Music Gateway's stance on helping new talent and their strong reputation within the music industry as the perfect partnership for the future.
